Description

As a finance intern, you'll support a specific area of Apple's business, such as:

AppleCare, Financial Services, Internet Software & Services, Marketing, Operations, R&D, Retail, Sales, Worldwide Financial Planning & Analysis, and more.

During the summer, you could:

- Analyze financial performance by highlighting trends and anomalies
- Streamline reporting through the use of databases such as Tableau or with Excel macros
- Partner with cross functional groups and business partners to analyze the business
- Provide insights and recommendations for operational improvements and innovations
- Assist with close procedures

After completing a summer internship in Cupertino, high performing finance interns will be eligible for an offer into Apple's highly desirable Finance Development Program (FDP). The FDP is a two year rotational program providing entry-level talent with an opportunity to gain breadth through typically six to eight diverse experiences in Apple Finance in Cupertino. Upon completion, FDPs move into non-rotating Financial Analyst roles within Apple.
